St. Mark is believed to be John Mark, a companion of the apostles Peter and Paul in the early Christian church. He is traditionally regarded as the author of the Gospel of Mark, one of the four canonical gospels in the New Testament of the Bible. According to Christian tradition, Mark was a follower of Peter and wrote down Peter's teachings and accounts of Jesus' life, which became the basis for the Gospel of Mark. Mark is also said to have traveled with Paul and Barnabas on their missionary journeys and later became the bishop of Alexandria, where he was martyred in 68 AD. He is often depicted in art as a lion, which is also the symbol of the city of Venice, where his relics are said to be buried.

Cyril of Alexander, a 5th century church father comments on Jesus as our Good Shepherd:

"He shows in what manner a shepherd may be proved good; and He teaches that he must be prepared to give up his life fighting in defence of his sheep, which was fulfilled in Christ. For man has departed from the love of God, and fallen into sin, and because of this was, I say, excluded from the divine abode of paradise, and when he was weakened by that disaster, he yielded to the devil tempting him to sin, and death following that sin he became the prey of fierce and ravenous wolves. But after Christ was announced as the True Shepherd of all men, He laid down his life for us (1 John 3:16), fighting for us against that pack of inhuman beasts.

"He bore the Cross for us, that by His own death he might destroy death. He was condemned for us, that He might deliver all of us from the sentence of punishment: the tyranny of sin being overthrown by our faith: fastening to the Cross the decree that stood against us, as it is written (Colossians 2:14). Therefore as the father of sin had as it were shut up the sheep in hell, giving them to death to feed on, as it is written in the psalms (Ps. Xlviii.16), He died for us as truly Good, and truly our Shepherd, so that the dark shadow of death driven away He might join us to the company of the blessed in heaven; and in exchange for abodes that lie far in the depths of the pit, and in the hidden places of the sea, grant us mansions in His Father's House above. Because of this he says to us in another place: Fear not, little flock, for it has pleased your Father to give you a kingdom (Luke 12:32)."
